

I have been very pleased with Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law. It has drastically lessened the number of phone calls I receive at home. I now can spend my evenings at home with my family without worrying about answering the phone for fear it is another unwanted solicitor. I used to receive at least 10 or 12 calls a day from telemarketers, I now receive at most 2 or 3. This has been a great time saver for me, and has increased my quality time at home. Please consider the great benefit this law has been to Indiana residents and do not make changes to it that would lessen the protections it has granted us. Thank you.
